

Dear Sisters,

Greetings to you from the Generalate, Rome.

On this Feast Day of our Mother Foundress, Blessed Mary Theresa Ledóchowska, I wish to share with you some of her words that, even today, illuminate our path and strengthen our vocation: “The Lord has called us too; not only to save ourselves, but also many souls. This is the beauty and greatness of our vocation.

By responding to the grace of our vocation we can save many souls and rejoice with them for all eternity, Amen” (Allocution to the community at Maria Sorg, 16 June 1918).

What strength and consolation emanate from these words! We are not called randomly just to fulfil a task, but are given a vocation to be partakes in the greatness of divine love. Our faithful response to grace, not only leads us to salvation, but extends to countless souls, promising us an eternal and shared joy.

Our Mother Foundress also left us a precious guide for living our mission authentically: “To achieve true fervour for the salvation of souls we must become authentic consecrated persons” (Ascetical Conferences, 6 April 1905). Authenticity is the foundation of our apostolic fervour. It is not enough to desire good; a profound conformity to Christ is necessary. Only those who live their consecration to the full can radiate the love that saves and draws others.

On this significant Day, let us ardently renew our 'Yes', being aware that the beauty of our vocation is manifested in its capacity to transform hearts, starting with our own. The charism we have received continues to be alive in the present, urging us towards an ever purer and more generous love for God and for our brothers and sisters.

May the spirit of Blessed Mary Theresa Ledóchowska accompany us daily, sustaining us in generously responding to the Lord's call, becoming instruments of salvation and joy for all those whom the Lord places along our path.

WISH YOU A VERY HAPPY FEAST!

With hearts full of gratitude, let us give thanks to the Lord for the gift of these our Sisters, who are generously embarking upon or renewing the path of consecrated life. Their joyful response rekindles in each of us the desire to belong totally to Christ, in daily fidelity and self-giving love.

Let us once again be guided by the voice of our Blessed Mother Foundress, who with maternal strength encourages us: “If we faithfully observe our Vows, if we seriously strive for perfection, we shall receive eternal happiness as a gift. So, go forward with courage, My Daughters!” (Letter to the community of Maria Sorg, 7 September 1917). Let us embrace these words as a light for our journey and a living promise of God’s faithfulness. Let us accompany our Sisters with prayers, so that they may walk in trust, fervour and joy.

Dear Sisters, uniting ourselves to the appeal of Pope Leo XIV: “We must not grow accustomed to war”, let us unanimously raise our supplication to the Lord, while the world is still wounded by conflicts that sow pain and destruction, particularly in the Middle East. Let us pray to our Lord Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace and Mary our Loving Mother, the Queen of Peace to cast their merciful gaze upon all afflicted peoples and inspire the leaders of nations to make choices of peace and reconciliation.

I greet you with fraternal affection and assure you my prayers.
